the four articles two review essays various book reviews and obituary contained in this issue all revolve around contestations of islamic authority notably two of these articles are drawn from the ajis symposium on maqā'id whose first set of essays were featured in the previous issue 38 3 4 dedicated to the topic in the first article agents of grace ali altaf mian develops a sophisticated and nuanced reading of intentionality in the work of the moral theologian al

ghazali mian reads the latter's work to disclose ethical action as a site of contingency and ambivalence indeed of the subject's non-sovereignty he contributes this theorization of intentionality as a constructive critique of accounts of ethical agency in the anthropology of islam in the second article no scholars in the west emily goshey carefully unpacks the ostensible paradox by which western salafis who studied in the muslim world are not seen as scholars by the very communities they lead what then comprises religious authority and scholarship within these models of knowledge transmission goshey tracks the dynamics of scholarship and community leadership based on fieldwork with african american salafi affiliate communities in philadelphia in the third article maqā'id models for an islamic medical ethics aasim padela presents a typology of maqā'id based approaches to medical ethics whether requiring a field-based redefinition a conceptual extension or a text-based postulation of the classical maqā'id theory however padela shows that these frameworks remain woefully underdeveloped to offer appropriate and sufficient guidance for pressing bedside cases in the fourth article developing an ethic of justice thahir jamal kiliyamannil offers a creative rereading of new muslim movements in south india rather than relying on old typologies about political islam or secularized activists he considers the solidarity youth movement to articulate an islamic ethic of justice inspired by abul a la maududi this case study shows not only how the maqā'id framework may inform discourses well beyond the domains of legal practice but also how this specific articulation of political justice is based in the praxis of the indian muslim minority these four articles and the remaining elements of the issue foreground contemporary contestations of islamic authority read together they also offer a set of terms for thinking productively about its contours limits affordances and possibilities the events of 9/11 had a profound impact on american society but they had an even more lasting effect on muslims living in the united states once practically invisible they suddenly found themselves overexposed by describing how islam in america began as a strange cultural object and is gradually sinking into familiarity finding mecca in america illuminates the growing relationship between islam and american culture as muslims find a homeland in america rich in ethnographic detail the book is an up close account of how islam takes its american shape in this book mucahit bilici traces american muslims progress from outsiders to natives and from immigrants to citizens drawing on the philosophies of simmel and heidegger bilici develops a novel sociological approach and offers insights into the civil rights activities of muslim americans their increasing efforts at interfaith dialogue and the recent phenomenon of muslim ethnic comedy theoretically sophisticated finding mecca in america is both a portrait of american islam and a groundbreaking study of what it means to feel at home british muslim activism has evolved constantly in recent decades what have been its main groups and how do their leaders compete to attract followers which social and religious ideas from abroad are most influential in this groundbreaking study sadek hamid traces the evolution of sufi salafi and islamist activist groups in britain including the young muslims uk hizb ut tahrir the salafi jimas organisation and traditional islam network with reference to second generation british muslims especially he explains how these groups gain and lose support embrace and reject foreign ideologies and succeed and fail to provide youth with compelling models of british muslim identity analysing historical and firsthand community research hamid gives a compelling account of the complexity that underlies reductionist media narratives of islamic activism in britain
